Gratuitously detailed descriptions of acts of torture, acts of extreme violence and extreme cruelty, and descriptions of victim suffering are presented in a sexualised context for reader titillation. An example is the description of an ejaculation over the bound, agonised, and bleeding body of his victim. The intentionally titillatory nature of the descriptions results in a tendency by the disk to support acts of torture, and the infliction of extreme violence and extreme cruelty.

The New Zealand Bill of Rights Act 1990 (NZBR Act) has been considered in relation to the material on the disk. The disk either supports or tends to support criteria under s(3)(2) of the FVPC Act and is therefore deemed to be objectionable. Section 3(2) of the FVPC Act takes precedence over s14 of the NZBR Act and so no further consideration need be given to s14.
